Gentlemen:
While in Nevada recently I had occasion to drink out of one of your South African Water Bags. Water from the bag certainly tasted good on the tongue. We used one of your 25 gallon bags and the water remained cool all day, even though the temperature was over 100 in the shade, and in the morning I found the water sparkling and as cold as ice water. It certainly is a boon to those living in the arid regions.

Yours Sincerely, W. E. WIDER

A CHALK STORY WITH A CHEESE END

Tale of an Old Billiard Table Used at Stillwater Many Yeas Ago.

The Churchill county papers from time to time relate reminiscences of olden times in the Carson Sink country, but as yet we have seen no story about the deposit of chalk which lies some twenty miles from Stillwater, the old county seat of Churchill county. This chalk is very fine material and some day will be made use of.

Away back in the early days a character by the name of R. Q.
Vaughn started a saloon in Stillwater, and among the attractions of the place was a combination billiard and pool table. This table was the old style and only a trifle less in area than the diamond of a baseball field, while the cues used were about eight feet in length.
It took a man of muscle to drive a billiard ball around this table with one shot. District court was held in Stillwater occasionally and once in a while there was a dance, and yearly a county fair and horse races.

On these occasions the little town would be full to overflowing, and the saloon did a good business, the new billiard table being in great demand. In the course of time billiard cues became broken and were replaced by straight willow poles with the bark stripped off and tipped with buttons cut out of pigskin.
The supply of boughten chalk, used to chalk the cues, was soon exhausted and as none could be purchased in town Vaughn went to the chalk hills and quarried out a piece about six feet square. This he brought home and placed on a large table in the corner of his saloon, and when the players wanted to chalk their cues all they had to do was to stick the end of the cue against this slab of chalk, give the cue a few twists and the business was done. In the course of time numerous holes, the size of the end of a cue, were worn in the slab, and eventually the whole piece of chalk looked like a celerander.

All the old-time crack billiard players like Lem Allen, Warren Williams, Jim Richards, Billy Grimes, Tony Trolson, Tom Toomey and others learned the game on this table, which accounts for their being such experts on smaller cues now.

A favorite trick of Lem Allen's was, when he had a hard man to beat at the game, to jam a small chunk of cheese down his opponent's chalk hole. This greased his opponents cue instead of chalking it, and the consequences were that Mr.
Lem's adversary made so many mis-cues that he was easily defeated.

Those good old days are gone, gone and forever.—Yerington Times.

OLDEST RAILROAD CLERK IS CALLED BY DEATH

LAWRENCE, Kan., Aug. 2.—J.
D. Herrington, 81 years old, said to be the oldest man in the railway mail service, both from point of age and length of service, died here early today.

Mr. Herrington entered the government's service as a railway mail clerk in 1865, at the close of the Civil war, and since that time has worked on nearly every road west of the Mississippi river. He had served nearly 46 years continuously.

RAWHIDE MILLS RUN CONSTANTLY ON GOOD ORES

LEASERS GO DOWN; CROSSCUT REGULARLY; GOOD SUL-PHIDES FOUND

E. W. King, operating the Rawhide Queen and Rawhide Coalition properties and directing the Queen mill which is doing custom work for the entire camp, came to Reno yesterday with $2000 worth of precipitates from the cyanide auxiliary, the second shipment from the new mill. Mr. King gives a very optimistic report of the working of the leases at Rawhide and with the mill running constantly at full capacity the hopes of those who have stood by that badly buffeted camp bid fair to be justified.

It may be surprising, but it is the fact, on Mr. King's authority, that Rawhide has produced to date over a half million in gold. The National mill has been working regularly and the new Queen mill will materially aid in handling the output. Both mills have the latest equipment for the cyanide process in addition to the usual equipment.

The main shaft on the Queen is now down 500 feet and has tapped a promising vein of sulphide ore on which the reliance of the camp rests for permanency and extent of values. The upper levels above the water line produced remarkable jewelry ore, but until the sulphides were found further mining was more or less of a gamble.
The Superior lease is down to the 500-foot level with crosscuts at every level. It has produced $60-000 already and a crosscut will now be run from the 500.

The Crown lease cut the ore body on the 300-foot level and is down in the shaft 360 feet, where they have started to crosscut for the ore.

The Phoenix lease has produced more marketable ore than any and it is very probable that it, with the others, will keep the Queen mill running at full capacity indefinitely.
